HOLD FOR RELEASE UNTIL 2020:

New author Kassandra Heit releases a collection of twisted love stories in Conspiracies of Love, available for download at Smashwords.com.

Available for review.

Plum City, Wisconsin – September 17, 2017 – Recently published Down in the Dirt author, Kassandra Heit, will publish her own e-book, Conspiracies of Love, through Smashwords the beginning of 2020 for $10.00. The collection revolves around three different couples who range from normal and relatable to two people who are so obsessed with power and secrecy they could be the Clintons.

According to Heit, “The collection dives into the moments that can make or break a relationship. Every couple has its problems whether they’re living paycheck to paycheck or using each other for personal gain. Love’s most tense days can make for the best rewards.” Heit illustrates those turning points with each short story in the collection.

In the first story, “Behind the Glass,” a young woman must decide her future when the man who’s haunted her past presents her with a proposition.

Faced with divorce papers, David and Hilary argue about the crumbling state of their relationship in the tense telling of “Do I Have It Wrong.”

The final flash fiction piece is “Welcome Home.” After spending months apart, a young couple reunites with the hope of picking up where they left off.

Heit is a Full Sail University student studying for her B.F.A. in Creative Writing for Entertainment. She plans to be a screenwriter for television with the goal of becoming a showrunner for her own series one day.

Conspiracies of Love is available on Smashwords.com, the largest distributor of indie authors through their publication website, which allows readers to download books in a variety of formats for mobile devices.
